Eindhoven

Vote for the CDA on March 21!

Home in Eindhoven

Home in Eindhoven

CDA Eindhoven will work in the coming years on making Eindhoven financially healthy again, better accessible and safe. To make Eindhoven a city where everyone feels at home. A city where we can live affordably, happily and with respect for each other's values and beliefs. We will fight for a sustainable city that we can pass on to our children!

CDA. Home in Eindhoven.

Safety

Throughout the years Eindhoven has become a 'big International city'. Unfortunately Eindhoven also faces the problems which all big cities have. In the last years our city has been in the top 3 of the AD crime index. A safe community requires us to take hard measures. In order to make Eindhoven safer, we need more local police officers. The CDA wants to facilitate "Neighborhood Watch Teams", neighborhood-based teams, in order to involve communities in problem solving and crime prevention.

Accessibility

Eindhoven is a city to be proud of. We are the fifth largest city in the country and our region is growing fast economically. To keep it this way, Eindhoven must remain accessible. Important roads such as the Vestdijk, crucial in making Eindhoven accessible by car, cannot be closed. The (high)ways around Eindhoven must facilitate quick accessibility. Public transport must be made more affordable. The CDA wants the construction of 4 large parking and ride lots (P+R's) around the city where people can park their cars and then travel to the city center by public transport. This way we keep Eindhoven livable, sustainable and accessible.

Strong community

Many people have good ideas how to make their neighborhood a better place and how to make this happen. Unfortunately, most of them hit a wall of bureaucracy at the municipality. Citizens, for instance, must start up an association to fill in a form for a neighborhood budget. The municipality has to become a stimulating factor instead of an obstacle. Where matters might be arranged at neighborhood level, we want to give the citizens the opportunity to take self-initiatives.

Values & traditions

Eindhoven is the city of innovation and design. But we do not forget that Eindhoven is more than just that. Eindhoven has a rich history, that the CDA wants to make visible in a city-museum. Values and traditions are essential in keeping a community together. The municipality should support activities which are aimed at bringing groups of different backgrounds together and which make connections between people. That's why sports must be available for all people living in Eindhoven. We want to reverse the budget cuts made in recreational sports. Together we are Eindhoven.

Care for each other

We take care with and for each other. The starting point is the personal strength and dignity of people. Patients go First. The CDA wants to strengthen home and community care. As the population ages this is an important matter. Care-organizations have to be efficient; professional care and support has to meet the wishes of people. This however must remain manageable, therefore informal carers must be well supported from the municipality. Therefore, daycare and respite care must be well organized have time to take a step back and relax from time to time.
